

All Formula One races had longer average lap times in the early 2010s.

The expectation is that cars go faster each year as technology improves, but average fastest lap times in Formula One races show a different picture.

All Formula One races had longer average lap times in the early 2010s.

The expectation is that cars go faster each year as technology improves, but average fastest lap times in Formula One races show a different picture.

